Emily Naiser, Ph.D. Associate Research Scientist

Dr. Naiser is a proud member of the Aggie Family. She began her career with the Public Policy Research Institute as a graduate student preparing assessments for data analysis. She then progressed as a full-time staff researcher with two advanced degrees and ten plus years of research into the care needs of children living with disabilities. She has conducted many projects in public health where her passion lies, using qualitative and quantitative analysis methods to ascertain program effectiveness, and to develop best practice recommendations to policymakers. Recently, her efforts have expanded into the areas of criminal justice and workforce development utilizing her expertise in applied qualitative analysis.

- Career supported by a master's in public health and a Ph.D. in Health Services Research from Texas A&M University.
- Secured $11.5 million in funding as a Principal Investigator.
- Dr. Naiser teaches within the School of Public Health.
- Contributes to sponsored research across a variety of focus areas including public health, education, and criminal justice.
- Her analysis of children living with disabilities was cited in Texas Senate Bill 1105.
